CHARACTER BACKSTORY

Mary-Ann Mayfield is the elderly halfling widow of Clarence Mayfield, former Governor of Avalon. Beneath her high-society demeanour lies a ruthless Inquisitor Rogue. She joined the party in Durvish City, demanding a suite and hiring them for her journey to Adalens to visit her goddaughter. Though generous with allies, she is lethal, executing foes with her signature knitting needles. Despite being targeted by the Adalens Thieves' Guild, she remains unfazed and resolute in her journey.

Brave. You have advantage on saves against being frightened.

Ear for Deceit. When you choose this archetype at 3rd level, you develop a talent for picking out lies. Whenever you make a Wisdom (Insight) check to determine whether a creature is lying, treat a roll of 7 or lower on the d20 as an 8.

Halfling Nimbleness. Move through the space of larger creatures.

Insightful Fighting. At 3rd level, you gain the ability to decipher an opponent's tactics and develop a counter to them. As a bonus action, you can make a Wisdom (Insight) check against a creature you can see that isn't incapacitated, contested by the target's Charisma (Deception) check. If you succeed, you can use your Sneak Attack against that target even if you don't have advantage on the attack roll, but not if you have disadvantage on it. Position of Privilege. Thanks to your noble birth, people are inclined to think the best of you. You are welcome in high society, and people assume you have the right to be wherever you are. The common folk make every effort to accommodate you and avoid your displeasure, and other people of high birth treat you as a member of the same social sphere. You can secure an audience with a local noble if you need to.

Sneak Attack. 5d6 extra damage on attack where you have advantage or another enemy of creature is within 5 ft. (use once/turn).
